ADM: 20-01  Principals’ Retreat and Mini-Conference

WHAT:  AUGUST 1, 2019 FEATURING: Dr. Peter DeWitt

“Everything school leaders do has an effect on the climate of the school. In an inclusive and supportive school climate, teachers feel that they can take risks with students because they know that regardless of success or failure, their school leaders will support them,” (Collaborative Leadership, p.47) Peter DeWitt (Ed.D.) is a former school principal in Upstate, NY who previously taught elementary school for eleven years. In 2014, he became an independent consultant in order to ultimately have a greater impact on leaders, teachers, students and parents.

Participant Outcomes:

• Leaders will understand the importance of, and research behind, collaboration as a school leader
• Leaders will learn why within school variance between teachers may be an issue to focus on because it is much wider than the variance between schools (PISA)
• Leaders will learn how collective teacher efficacy is a way to minimize within school variance among teachers
• Leaders will learn how/when to use tools such as the flipped model to build collaboration
• Leaders will learn how there are at least 6 influences to increase your success as a collaborative leader
