Restorative Practices: The Art of Circle Keeping

WHAT: This will be a follow up day to the “Introduction to Restorative Practices” workshop. In this session, we will be practicing the art of circle keeping. You will leave the training with the skills necessary for being a circle leader in your classroom or community. Restorative practices build community and can help set things right when the integrity of the community is challenged by harmful behaviors. When people come together for restorative interactions, they sit in circles. Circle dialogue is a fundamental element of restorative dialogue and the restorative process. Classroom circles support the two main goals of restorative practices: building community and reporting to harms through dialogue that sets things right.

In order to attend this session, please make sure that you have attended the “Introduction to Restorative Practices” workshop.
