Hailey Gworek is a senior from John F. Kennedy High School and is enrolled in the Animal Science program at Erie 1 BOCES Potter Career and Technical Center.

"I enrolled in BOCES because I want to care for animals and help people learn about animal behaviors and how to care for animals themselves," Hailey said.

In the fall of 2021, following graduation, Hailey plans on going to college to become a veterinary technician at first, then going back to become a full-fledged veterinarian.

Under the instruction of Jessica Sawyer, Hailey has learned about first aid, grooming, clinical skills, and more.

"Hailey has excelled in Animal Science, showing true dedication to giving animals the best care possible," said Sawyer. "She exhibits responsibility and continuous improvement, especially when it comes to grooming and animal behavior."

"This program has provided me an advantage to reach my goals by giving me a head start in the animal science field," Hailey said. "I've also been able to overcome challenges and learn how to help in the medical industry."

As part of public education, Erie 1 BOCES offers a variety of career and technical programs during the regular school day to high school students in Erie County. High school students interested in learning more about how they can participate in various programs such as sports science careers, web technologies and game programming, health careers or aviation technology, should visit www.e1b.org/cte or speak with their high school counselor.

Junior Cain Fischer has found success in EDGE Academy.

"Even through virtual learning, Cain actively participates in online courses," instructor Lindsey Meyers said. "His teachers are all impressed by his work ethic."

Cain enjoys business class, where he learned about money management.

"I like my classes at Erie 1 BOCES because the teachers take their time to explain things to everyone, even if they need to do it individually," Cain said.

▶▶ What is BOCES?
